

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

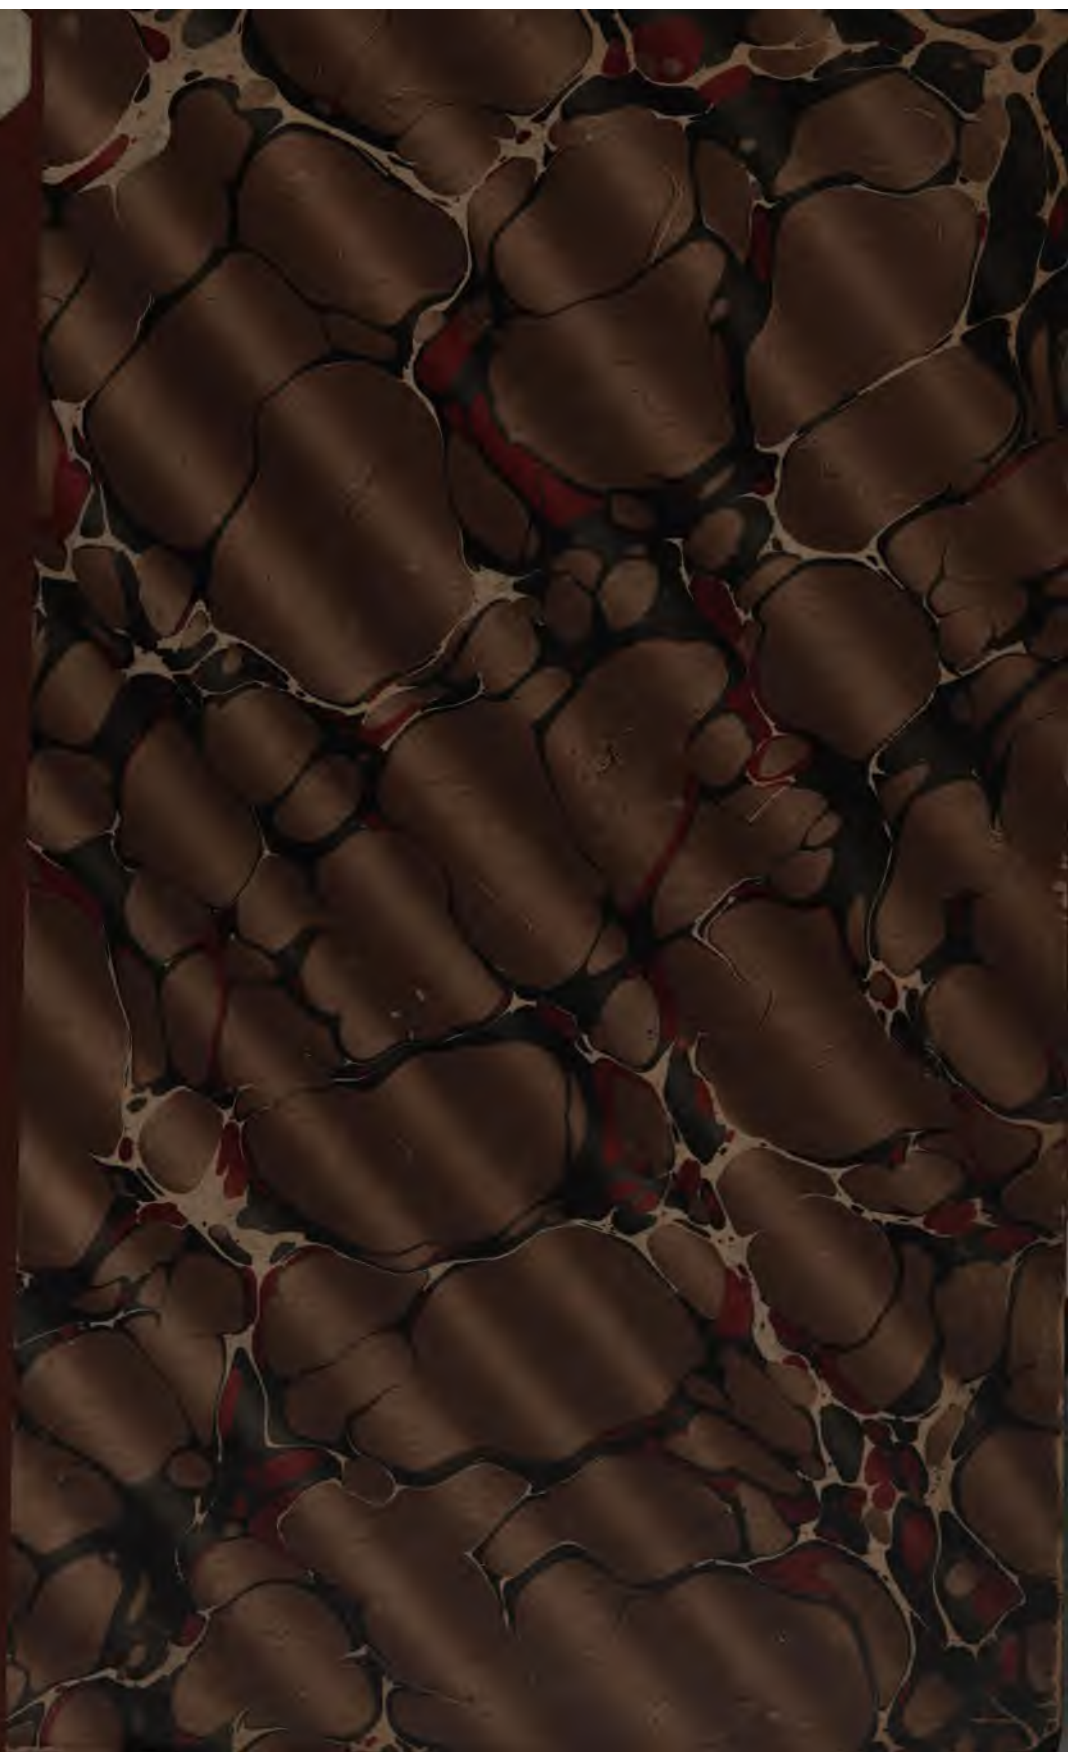

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

The Tokio Library having proved a great attraction to the public from its re-opening in May, 1875, it has become necessary to publish for distribution a systematically arranged catalogue of the books already collected.

This catalogue which the Librarian has now the pleasure of presenting to the public, comprises the titles of all the books, possessed by this institution, in the English, French and German languages; although he regrets that owing to his imperfect knowledge on some subjects, he has found himself unable to make such a perfect classification as he could desire.

Large additions to the collection are expected to be made from time to time, which will necessitate the publication of supplementary catalogues.

K. Nagai,
Acting Librarian.

Tokio Library,
June 27th, 1876.

HISTORICAL SUMMARY.

The Tokio Shoseki-kwan, or Tokio Library was organized by the Hakubuts-kioku (Museum) of the Mombusho, (Department of Education) in the 4th month of the 5th year of Meiji, (1872) and the Lecture Hall of the Daigaku (the old college of the Chinese classics) was appropriated to its temporary accomodation.

In the next month, the Japanese and Chinese books of the Daigaku, and the European books of the Nanko (the institution out of which the present Kaisei-gakko or Imperial University of Tokio sprang) were placed in the Library; and the regulations for readers were adopted, and thereby the books and also the conditions of using them were divided into two classes according to their value and reality.

From the 1st day of the 8th month, in the same year, the Library was open for the public under the established regulations.

In the 3rd month of the 6th year of Meiji, (1873) the Library was connected with the Hakuran-kwai; (Board of Universal Exhibition) and in the 7th month following, the temporary building having been taken as the place of meeting of the Chihokwan-kwaigi, (Assembly of provincial officials) the books were taken to the government storehouses at Asakusa in the city and kept there in storage.

In the 2nd month of the 8th year of Meiji, (1875) the Library was separated from the Hakuran-kwai, all the collections were transferred to that Board, and the mode of the administration of this institution was changed.

The Taisei-den (the old temple of Confusius) in the ground of the Daigaku was fitted up as a temporary building for the accomodation of the Library, in the 3rd or succeeding month.

On this occasion the Mombusho gave its own library books to this institution, and a law was enacted, that a copy of every publication in this country in future should be placed in the Library, by the Bureau of Copyright in the Mombusho, whenever publishers forward their publications to that Bureau, under the law relating to the press.

From the 17th day of the 5th month in the same year, the Library was kept open, every day, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M., free to all who comply with the new adopted regulations.

The request made to the Mombusho, that such useful books as formerly belonged to the schools of the Hans (Daimios' territories or provinces now called Kens) should be placed in the Library, was acceded to by that Department.

Although the Bureau of Copyright was transferred to the Naimusho, (Department of the Interior) in the 7th month following, the law relating to the donation of new publications to the Library was not changed.

After a few succeeding changes of the regulations, it was finally decided that the Library shall be open, every day, from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M.; on and after the 1st day of the 7th month of the 9th year of Meiji. (1876)

VII.

EXPLANATIONS.

1. This catalogue contains three sections : English, French and German.
 2. The books of each section are arranged in six classes according to subjects, and these classes are subdivided into many groups or divisions, whenever the number of books in one class is so large as to require.
 3. The books in each division are arranged in the alphabetical order of the names of the authors, with a few exceptions : i. e. Biographies are arranged according to the names of persons whose lives are written, and the books, whose authors' names are not mentioned on the title-page, according to their titles.
 4. Treatises, Essays, Lectures &c. on special subjects are arranged under appropriate heads. Thus Philosophical works are placed in Class I. Div. A., Political essays in Class II. Div. B. and the like ; but those of a general nature in Class IV. Div. B.
 5. Collections, Libraries &c. such as Bohn's Standard Library, Illustrated Library of Wonders, and the like, are placed in Class IV. Div. B.
 6. Dictionaries and Encyclopaedias, including such works as Law Lexicon, Dictionary of Chemistry &c. which are devoted to special sciences, are placed in Class VI. Div. A.
 7. Periodicals devoted to special sciences are placed under their respective heads, as for example the American Law Review in Class II. Div. A., the American Chemist, Architect &c. in Class III Div. H. &c. ; but those of a miscellaneous nature in Class VI. Div. B.
 8. The abbreviations employed in this catalogue are such as are in common use.
 9. The employment of capital letters in the titles of the English books is confined to proper names and to the initial letter of each sentence.
 10. The subdivisions of the French and German books are different from those of the English, and consequently in the classification of those books, there are some exceptions to what have been stated above.
